This is based on the Mayor of London's Housing SPG density methodology and therefore taking into account non-residential uses; a total site area of 540sqm, non-residential uses being 2.4% of the total proposed floorspace, and 92 habitable rooms).

APPENDIX 1 – Miss Gibby’s Statement to Committee

Application number: PA/16/00988

Location: 87 Turner Street, London E1 2AG

Proposal: Refurbishment of existing public House (A4) with 3 storey extension to the west elevation to allow for the use of the upper stories as residential (C3) and associated works

This statement is on behalf of Miss Sandra Gibby who wishes to object to the above Planning Application on a number of grounds.

Miss Gibby is the Leaseholder and long-time resident of Flat 12 Gwynne House, which adjoins the Good Samaritan Public House and shares a party wall with those premises. The objections she raises suggest that there are serious omissions of fact and enquiry on the part of the Applicant.

Compromise of Privacy

The application proposes to install four new windows on the side elevation of the Pub, to be located in the currently blank wall at right angles to the front of Gwynne House on Turner Street. These windows would be in very close proximity and directly overlook the bedrooms of four flats. In addition, the flats’ front doors and balconies would be under constant surveillance from the living rooms of the new flats.

Reduction of Light

Miss Gibby questions the findings of surveys regarding the potential loss of light and sunlight on individual flats. No measurements were taken from within the flats. The space at the back of Gwynne House is already boxed in, affecting light, and the planned addition to the side of the pub (on Stepney Way) will reduce light to unacceptable levels.

Protected Trees

There is no mention, either on the plans or in the supporting documents, of three trees at the back of Gwynne House that are subject to a Tree Protection Order. One of these is a mature mulberry tree that stands in very close proximity to the boundary wall between Gwynne House and the Good Samaritan Pub and is at serious risk of damage from any work or scaffolding required at the back of the Pub. In addition, any reduction of light as a result of new building, even if only from one angle, is likely to adversely affect the tree’s welfare and growth pattern. Lack of any mention of protected trees illustrates serious omissions of fact and enquiry on the part of the Applicant.

Party Wall Issues

Four flats in Gwynne House, including Miss Gibby’s, share a party wall with the Pub. In drawing up the proposals, there has been no discussion with residents about issues that might affect them. The consultation process has been inadequate.

Incomplete information on proposed rear elevation

There is no detailed illustration of the elevation of the building that would be seen at right angles and very close to the back bedroom windows in Gwynne House. Although there are no proposals for windows in that elevation, it is not possible to judge the full impact of the new building line, or its height in comparison to the existing building, all of which will undoubtedly have a huge impact on the general outlook from Gwynne House flats. The Application does not illustrate the proposals sufficiently to enable a fully informed assessment to be made by those most affected.

Development of Basement Area

The application proposes to relocate and increase the capacity of the kitchen area. However, there appear to be no windows or sources of natural light and ventilation in the basement, or any proposal to install these. This suggests that extensive mechanical ventilation will be required, raising concerns about noise from the plant required to service the kitchen. It also appears that there is no provision for any separate route out of the kitchen area for fire exit purposes and that the existing single staircase appears to be the only exit. The plans seem to be incomplete as far as these issues are concerned.

Installation of Lift

The proposal includes the provision of a lift and new staircase to the new flats above the ground floor. The lift is located close to the back bedrooms of flats in Gwynne House. Miss Gibby raises concerns about noise associated with lift use, such as that of the lift plant, especially if used late at night. More information about this installation is required.

Impact on highway and transport networks, and waste management

Proposals suggest that the development of the Good Samaritan will not have a "severe impact on the local highway". However, if the business on the ground floor is developed and expanded, then undoubtedly it will have to be serviced by increased deliveries and more frequent collections of waste. And although 'car free', the new flats will also generate traffic, whether associated with visitors or deliveries. Traffic and parking is already at saturation point in the narrow streets around the area. The assessment of the impact on the surrounding highways is unrealistic and misleading and not enough attention has been given to waste management.

Potential Change of Activity in the refurbished ground floor premises

The Planning Application emphasises that the Applicant is committed to retaining the Public House. However, it is also obvious (e.g. from the increased kitchen facilities) that the whole nature of the business will change. There is considerable local concern that the Good Samaritan can survive as a traditional business, and as an appropriate amenity for local residents and those working in the nearby hospital, university and local businesses.

Extent of current consultation

Finally, Miss Gibby is concerned that there has not been adequate consultation on this Planning Application in order to ensure that all interested parties have been directly notified.

Gwynne House is a block of 21 flats, the majority of which are owned by absentee Leaseholders and occupied by tenants. The consultation letter, dated 6th May 2016, was addressed to The Owner/Occupier and delivered in the post to each individual flat but may not have been forwarded to the appropriate Leaseholder. Miss Gibby is concerned not all interested parties have been contacted and therefore may well not be fully aware of the development or their right to comment on it. She is also unclear whether the Freeholder of Gwynne House has been consulted.

Miss Gibby would be grateful if you could take her comments into consideration when considering this Planning Application.
