8.1 BOROUGH COMMANDER SPOTLIGHT

Service users from the Tower Hamlets and City of London Youth Justice Service were in attendance virtually to answer questions from the committee about their experiences with the police within the borough. They highlighted that police officers can be very aggressive and subject young people to unfair searches, leaving young people to feel targeted.

The committee raised the following comments and questions:

- Why do young people feel they are being targeted in this way from police officers? The service users stated that it was due to their age but also due to their race.

- While residents want to see greater police intervention to drug related crime, how do you think this can be balanced while not increasing stop and searches? The service users stated that stop and searches should be around suspicion and not random targeting, but also more resources should be placed in youth workers to work with young people, rather than police dealing with them first.
- Tower Hamlets is a young borough, based on the age of residents. What can the council do to support young people further? The service users reflected on youth centres and more engagement opportunities for young people to take part in. Mental Health needs to be taken more seriously and the council needs to ensure young people are supported better with their mental health issues.
- Where are the stop and search hot spots that young people are targeted? The service users stated that it is across East London, but places like Stepney, Shadwell and Whitechapel are known to be places where frequent stop and searches occur.
- What training would you like to see police officers have with young people? How do we build up more trust with young people over these issues with the police? The service users highlighted the initial contact with the police needs to be improved and how reporting to parents after a stop and search needs improvement. A training package covering mental health & learning disabilities would be an area for training.
- How would you prefer the police to engage with young people? The service users stated first the police should only be approaching young people if they have a good reason to, but when they do approach, it should come in a respectful way. A more diverse police force could ensure that stop and searches would be less likely to target young people due to their race.

The chair thanked the Youth Justice Team for their feedback to the committee and sharing their experiences.

Borough Commander Detective Chief Superintendent James Conway presented to the committee the update, highlighting, the Turnaround Plan 2023-25.

Ann Corbett, Director of Community Safety was present and commented on the need for strong community safety and local police who were aware of the diverse borough of Tower Hamlets.

The committee raised the following comments and questions:

- What is behind the disproportionate stop and search frequency of residents of colour within the borough? DCS Conway stated that there needs to be greater understanding of why police are stop and searching certain groups of residents. Looking at both Tower Hamlets and Hackney Boroughs, which are both covered as Commander, it is different demographics that are stop and searched at a higher level.
- There are concerns about the reduction in the safer neighbourhood teams and the impact this has on community safety, especially during the night-time. DCS Conway reported on the work of dedicated ward teams, but mentioned the lighter resourcing on neighbourhood policing teams but more work is being done locally and nationally on recruitment.

- There needs to be a more open and honest conversation about racism within the police. It was helpful to hear a commitment about removing officers who should not be with the police force, but also the police as an organisation needs to also be creating the right environment to tackle racism too. DCS Conway agreed that it was an important conversation, and the police is still confronting many of the issues that have been raised by the committee on racism within policing. But it also needs to be larger conversation out in the community, to ensure that police within the community are Tower Hamlets branded.
- What is the current staffing within the borough, how many are within the BAME Community? And can data also be provided on women within the police? DCS Conway confirmed he would provide a written response on this.
- What is being done to tackle youth violence and gang activity? How is the police engaging with young people? DCS Conway was supportive of the current police strategy on dealing with youth and gang violence, but more needs to be done. Ann Corbett confirmed that there was a downward trend in youth violence and with the local partnership has recently installed knife bins across the borough, along with other initiatives.
- What is being done to tackle child grooming within the borough? DCS Conway detailed the police efforts to end child exploitation within the borough, and the joined up approach to working with organisations across the capital and within other regions. Ann Corbett detailed the work the child exploitation team does in the community and working with the police.
- The lack of resourcing within neighbourhood policing is affecting many wards within the borough, with the number of abstractions of local policing taking teams away over 50-70 per cent in some wards. Will the Borough Commander share the most recent data on abstractions, and can there be commitment to reduce abstractions? Wards should have dedicated officers within them, this is important to building local relationships in locally and act as a deterrent to the concerns raised by committee members. DCS Conway detailed how London has a unique policing need, with the importance of neighbourhood policing, along with dealing with national events that happen in the capital, however recruitment plans are underway to see more resourcing. But also, work is being done to ensure a stronger model for neighbourhood policing within the Turnaround Plan, but unfortunately commitments cannot be made to abstractions at this time. DCS Conway agreed to provide further data to the committee on abstractions.
- There have been recent cases of children reporting domestic violence within the home, that is not being acted on. What is the current procedure around reporting and how effective is it? DCS Conway agreed to follow up on the recent cases, but detailed how the current reporting is recorded and acted on. The performance in borough on domestic abuse charging is one of the highest within the Metropolitan police but more can be done in supporting victims. DCS Conway agreed to provide further data to the committee on convictions on domestic abuse.

- Modern day slavery is a concern within the borough, what can we do to ensure exploitation is not happening within Tower Hamlets? DCS Conway detailed how officers are currently trained to detect modern day slavery and often detection comes from other forms of police work, and slavery or exploitation is picked up.
- What work is being done to work with faith organisations to deal with crime within the borough? DCS Conway stated how important faith organisations are within Tower Hamlets and their engagement with young people is important to raising awareness of interventions already in place.

The chair thanked Detective Chief Superintendent James Conway for attending and presenting to the committee.

Briefing

As part of the 2020/21 Overview and Scrutiny Committees (OSC) work programme, the committee held an Environment Scrutiny Challenge Session on 30 March 2021, focussing on: “examining the Council’s Air Quality Commitments and impacts on residents’ health outcomes”.

The scope of the scrutiny challenge session was:

- To examine air pollution issues in the borough, and the Council’s progress towards its air quality commitments including the Anti-idling Policy, Open Space Strategy, Air Quality Action Plan, Net Zero Carbon Plan (commitments relating to air quality), Transport Strategy, Parking Policy, and the Liveable Streets Programme).
- To assess if there are any outstanding issues that haven’t been addressed.
- To assess the impact on health implications for residents such as asthma and other health conditions linked to air pollution.
- To assess the Council’s long-term plans for air quality improvement, including funding/budget proposals.

Desired outcome for the challenge session was to establish the extent to which the Council has been effective in meeting its plans to improve air quality and corresponding health outcomes of residents in the borough.

Core questions asked at the session were:

1. What are the main causes of air pollution in the borough, and what are the correlating health implications for residents?
2. Are there any specific resident groups that are especially impacted by air pollution in the borough?
3. What commitments have the Council made towards improving air quality in the borough (such as in relation to the Anti-idling Policy, Open Space Strategy, Air Quality Action Plan, Net Zero Carbon Plan (commitments relating to air quality), Transport Strategy, Parking Policy, and the Liveable Streets Programme)? And what progress has been made towards these?

4. To what extent do these air quality plans and commitments address the air quality issues in the borough?
5. Are there any issues/ gaps that haven't fully been addressed?
6. What efforts/plans has the Council made towards increasing the number of Green Walls and Roofs in the borough, especially in schools?
7. How effective has the Council's air quality plans been on improving health outcomes of residents, especially children and young people?
8. What are the Council's air quality plans for the future and what are the funding/budget implications for this?

9 recommendations came out of the challenge session for services to take forward and deliver.

At the OSC scheduled for 27 March 2023 an update will be provided on the delivery of the action plans developed based on the recommendations which came out of the session.
